

The past few months have seen most of the wineries in the Alexander Valley and throughout California having to close their doors temporarily for tastings and experiences due to the outbreak of COVID-19. During this time, we quickly adapted in order to offer curbside services, new virtual experiences, and interactive social media events. Recently, we have been able to welcome back many of you to the winery, but with limited reservations and offerings. We have all had to learn new ways of experiencing wine country with face masks, social distancing, and other protocols to keep each other safe. As time goes on, we will be able to offer our guests more tasting programs and experiences that we've missed this year like our annual H-Block Party, harvest dinners, and other Wine Family activities, all hosted here at the winery.

While all of these challenges are going on in the business side of the wine industry, the vineyards were doing what they do every year—going through the process of making wine. Budbreak started in early spring when the warmer weather started to coax the vines from their winter hibernation. The vines started to show signs of flowering by late spring and clusters of berries began to develop and ripen throughout the summer. We are now well into harvest and the winemakers are transforming the grapes into the wines you will enjoy in future shipments!

Watching the slow, methodical development of the vines along with the hustle and effort of the winemakers shows two very different sides of winemaking—nature's pastoral development of the vines to create and nurture the fruit through the spring and summer, and the hectic activities of humans during the fall to harvest and make wine. Despite all of the challenges presented this year by COVID-19, the 2020 vintage still shows great promise for fantastic wines!

Francis Ford Coppola Winery Too! brings together the stories and wines from three of The Family Coppola's winery properties: Francis Ford Coppola Winery and Virginia Dare Winery in Sonoma County, California, and Domaine de Broglie in the Dundee Hills of Oregon.

Francis Ford Coppola Winery Too! is hosted at the home of Virginia Dare wines in Geyserville, California. This historic winery has roots dating back to 1835. To pay further homage to the early history of Sonoma County agriculture, we introduced our Virginia Dare Hard Cider in 2017, made from local heirloom apples, celebrating the American cider-making tradition that traces back to the early colonists.

We are now open for tastings on Saturdays and Sundays, available by reservation only. While joining us, guests can taste through a collection of our award-winning wines across all of The Family Coppola properties that span from Sonoma County, California to the Dundee Hills of Oregon. For reservations, please visit us online at www.ffcwtoo.com or call us at (707) 735-3500.
